

Pandas

Pandas live only in China. They are disappearing because of poaching and deforestation. This has been discovered quite recently as pandas live hidden in deep forests,

The black spots around their eyes protect them against sun reflection, which is strong in winter in the snowclad areas where they live. They have sharp ears but a poor sense of smell. Their feet have 6 fingers including a thumb which allow them to grasp things.

They live in forest and eat bamboos. They die when they are 20 to 30, the female bears only one or two babies, which are not bigger than a mouse when they are born, During 6 months they live in the arms of their mother who take care of them alone and feed them, A young panda is very flexible and can roll up into a ball, In zoos baby pandas find out many games with balls or plastic shovels, Pandas eat mostly bamboos, Bamboos grow very fast , Some variety can grow a meter in 24 hours. Pandas spend 10 to 12 hours eating every day .

Pandas like water very much.
